COGA Members Raise $332,000 for Tennyson Center for Children

DENVER – The Colorado Oil and Gas Association (COGA) presented a check to Tennyson Center for Children today after its members raised $332,000 for the non-profit.

Tennyson Center for Children is dedicated to helping children who have experienced severe abuse, neglect, and/or trauma so they can bravely, and safely, change their life's story.

COGA Chairman, Chip Rimer, Senior Vice President of Noble Energy, said, "The work that Tennyson Center does on behalf of children and families is truly inspirational. I am gratified and humbled by the generosity that our industry has shown to this outstanding community partner. By working together, we can make a difference in the lives of countless children for years to come."

"I was so inspired by the generosity of the companies and individuals that make up the COGA family. Their energy and passion for Tennyson Center will enable us to help more kids and families in the Colorado communities, like Weld County, where COGA members live and work," said Tennyson Center for Children CEO Ned Breslin.

COGA President and CEO Dan Haley said he was overwhelmed by the generosity of COGA's membership. "Tennyson Center's leadership and staff work tirelessly to support children and give them a chance at a new beginning. Our hats are off to the organization and their entire team for lifting up our community and providing real life second chances to those who deserve it most. Ned and his team are among our community's brightest lights."

About Tennyson Center

Tennyson Center for Children, based in Denver, Colo., is dedicated to helping children who have experienced severe abuse, neglect and/or trauma so they can bravely, and safely, change their life's story. For the past 113 years, Tennyson's trained professionals have empowered generations of children and families by providing a child-centered, customized approach to healing through our community-based, school, and/or residential programs. The primary goal of all TCC programs is to reintegrate our children back into safe families, supportive schools and vibrant communities.

About COGA

Founded in 1984, the Colorado Oil & Gas Association's (COGA) mission is to foster and promote the beneficial, efficient, responsible and environmentally sound development, production and use of Colorado oil and natural gas.
