COGA Honors Industry Employee with First-Ever Energy Advocate Award

Devin Becker Recognized for Efforts During Proposition 112 Campaign

DENVER — The Colorado Oil & Gas Association (COGA) recently awarded its first-ever Energy Advocate Award to celebrate a volunteer whose efforts went above and beyond in advocating for the state's oil and natural gas industry in 2018.

"We were in awe of the men and women of the oil and natural gas industry this past year. They stood up and represented our industry in unprecedented ways during this past election cycle," said Dan Haley, President & CEO of COGA. "We are pleased to announce that the first-ever recipient of COGA's Energy Advocate Award for the 2018 year is Devin Becker of Becker Safety and Supply."

"This year Devin Becker and his colleagues helped rally crowds of Coloradans everywhere they went. They wrote hundreds of postcards to potential voters. They were social media advocates. They created their own signs and distributed others. They shared videos and messaging. They truly went above and beyond in advocating for our industry," Haley added.

The Energy Advocate Award was created not only to recognize and honor those who advocate for Colorado's oil and natural gas industry, but also to inspire and encourage continued commitment and engagement within our industry.

Announcement of this year's Energy Advocate Award took place at the 2018 COGA Annual Meeting.

About COGA

Founded in 1984, the Colorado Oil & Gas Association's (COGA) mission is to foster and promote the beneficial, efficient, responsible and environmentally sound development, production and use of Colorado oil and natural gas. COGA is a nationally recognized trade association that aggressively promotes the expansion of Rocky Mountain natural gas markets, supply, and transportation infrastructure through its growing and diverse membership.
